Living in Euroa

The township of Euroa is located within the Shire of Strathbogie, in the Hume region, and is situated approximately halfway between Seymour and Benalla and 167 kilometres north-east of Melbourne.

The town boasts a rich history and is characterised by the Strathbogie ranges and the Goulburn River valley. Key industries for employment are agriculture, healthcare, social assistance and construction.

Being close to the Strathbogie Ranges makes Euroa a handy base for exploring the natural beauty of the area, including a number of picturesque creeks, waterfalls and tourist drives through the mountain ranges. One of the most picturesque waterfalls to visit is Gooram Falls with its extensive rock pools, 20 kilometres south of Euroa on the road to Mansfield.

The commercial centre of Euroa stretches along part of Binney Street and Railway Street and features a number of historical buildings including the post office (built in 1890), one of the former National Bank buildings (1885), the Euroa Hotel (1884) and Blairgowrie House (1890). The first church built in Euroa was the Catholic Church in 1867.

Seven Creeks is the waterway which runs through the town centre of Euroa and is flanked on both sides by towering native trees, parkland and recreational facilities
