We acknowledge the traditional owners of the lands and waterways in which we live and work, the Gunditjmara people of South West Victoria. We honour and pay our respects to elders, past, present and emerging.

Portland District Health would like to acknowledge the Winda-Mara Aboriginal Corporation and the Budj Bim Rangers for the use of this image.

About Portland District Health

Portland District Health is a public hospital under the Health Services Act 1988. Our role is to provide quality, safe health services to people in the Glenelg Shire. Portland District Health (PDH) is one of the oldest hospitals in Victoria. It has a proud history of service to its community.

PDH serves a catchment population of approximately 12,000 people drawn principally from the Glenelg Shire and increasingly from South East South Australia. Some community services cover an expanded catchment, including the Southern Grampians Shire.

While a high proportion of the region's population is concentrated in Portland, many people receiving services from PDH live in smaller townships in the surrounding region and in more isolated cropping, sheep, cattle and dairy farming areas.

Population numbers increase by an estimated 2,000 tourists during summer and other peak holiday periods. The community is characterised by a slowly growing population that is rapidly ageing.

The prevalence of chronic illnesses such as respiratory disease, cancers, cardiovascular disease, diabetes and mental illness is increasing as our population ages.

A relatively high incidence of road accidents, skin cancer, farm injuries and work-related accidents also occur in our region, a characteristic shared with other rural communities.

About Portland District Health

Portland District Health provides an integrated health service which comprises acute, primary health, and residential aged care services.

Our health service provides:

- Twenty four hour, seven days a week Urgent Care Centre
- Fifty-three available inpatient beds

Living in Portland

Portland is one of the earliest places of European settlement in Victoria, and home to one of Victoria's oldest hospitals. Recently the Yoorrook Justice Commission opened its proceedings in Portland.

The Commission's purpose:

"... is looking into land, sky and waters as part of the truth telling process in Victoria.

First Peoples have been caring for country for thousands of generations. The history of Europeans coming to Victoria 200 years ago and taking First Peoples' land is one of wrongdoing and devastating loss.

But it is also a story First Peoples' resistance, survival and ongoing connection to country".

Portland has the charm of a large country town, set by the sea, with all the modern amenities. The town revolves around its deep-water port, however tourism is increasing in the area as the many attributes of the south west are discovered.

The Portland area encompasses the spectacular scenery of the three bays – Portland Bay, Bridgewater Bay and Discovery Bay. Cape Nelson Lighthouse, built in 1884, is perched on the tip of Cape Nelson overlooking Portland Bay and the treacherous southern ocean.

Bridgewater Bay is significant for its wonderful beaches, seal colony, and Petrified Forest, while the mountainous sand dunes of Discovery Bay will leave you spellbound.

Some of Portland's other attractions include:

- The Portland Cable Tram.
- The Portland Botanical Gardens – One of the first public gardens to be established in Victoria and feature a bluestone Curator's Cottage, croquet lawns and 1300 dahlias planted each year.
- Fawthrop Lagoon – A permanent wetland area set in natural bushland on the city fringe. It is home to many birds, plants and aquatic life as well as having an excellent walking track.
- A lavender farm and wineries from the Henty Wine region.
- The WWII Memorial Lookout Tower – Built in an obsolete water tower, the museum displays memorabilia connected to the war and its many steps will lead you to a fantastic 360 degree view of Portland.
- Portland's Powerhouse Motor and Car Museum – the 4th largest in Australia has a unique collection of veteran, vintage and classic cars, motorbikes, tractors and engines.
